HOMELESS.

She stood in the tender twilight
While the soft wind whispered by,
Homeless, friendless and weary
Under the evening sky.
The scent of violets was wafted
From the grassy turf at her feet,
And the promise of coming summer
Made all things wondrous sweet.

But alone she stood in the twilight,
With the dew on her yellow hair,
And her soft eyes dimmed by unshed tears,
With never a friend to care,
And never a roof to shelter her
Or a kindly word is said,
As from door to door she moves along,
Begging her daily bread.

Oh, think of her in your cheerful homes
When the twilight shadows come
And you gather around your bounteous board
In the safe and happy home.
Give her a kind and gentle word—
You can surely spare her that;
She may come to your door at any time—
The homeless old tramp cat.

"SWEET BOM-BY."

We used to wonder where or how Roxie first came into existence. She herself said she had been a woman ever since she began to live, and that was all we knew of her past until something happened.

We were a trio of schoolgirls, and Roxie the old black washerwoman, who had left her adopted town, a few miles away, and come to the Springs to make her fortune by doing laundry work for Miss Fancher's school.

Roxie was not liked by people of her own race at the Springs, who called her "bigity," and she gloried in their estimate of her pride, doing all she could to merit it by switching and strutting and holding a high head when they were about, calling them "ugly as ho'made sin and po' buckra niggers," leaving them to infer that she had belonged to "quality," although she never gratified the curiosity of anybody by saying so. She made no friends except with us three, and the other girls wondered what we saw in the homely, surly old woman to even tolerate. But Roxie was an interesting character to us, and the mystery she managed to throw about herself had its attraction.

Roxie had literary aspiration, though she did not know a letter of the alphabet, and we were ambitious for her. To The Lighthouse, a religious weekly published by a colored clergyman in her adopted town, went many gushing effusions, bearing the name "Roxie Scales." We wondered why she persisted in using this instead of Roxie Friday, her name, and remonstrated with her, arguing that the articles were too good to appear under a pseudonym and she not have the credit, but she was firm.

These articles were on all manner of subjects. The one she seemed most concerned over was written in her own house at her dictation, entitled "A Day In Tennessee." We worked industriously, doing our best, while Roxie criticised right and left, made many flourishes of impatience and said she didn't believe we had ever heard of Tennessee in our lives. She ordered the best sentences cut out because they were a little exaggerated, and she was more exacting than was ever Miss Ross, who examined our essays and overlooked grammatical errors purposely made to test her competency.

Now and again Roxie and her huge flatiron would make an angry plunge in our direction, but she always stopped before getting too near with the words in a modified tone, "Chillen, I'ze s'prised at yo' wisdom." She meant our lack of it.

Her house was a mile from the college, in the prettiest, wildest spot about the Springs, and on her front door a card with the words, "This is my busy day," hung from early Monday morning until Saturday night.

On Sundays she would sit at her little parlor organ and sing "Sweet Bom-By" to an accompaniment improvised for the occasion. She never varied her song, but the accompaniment was a changeable as the wind.

We three would stand at the window and with tears in our eyes peep in upon the lonely old woman, singing her heart out and her breath away, her body swaying, her head in motion, her attitude and voice a desperate appeal to the God the poor soul secretly loved to send that bomby, that long delayed "Sweet Bomby."

Roxie never laughed or smiled. She had forgotten how, she said. Her countenance was the same under all circumstances, even in her stormiest moods.

Having no children of her own, she had taken in, one at a time, the homeless, friendless babies she had heard of and kept them until they were old enough to earn a living. There was one with her at the Springs, a cunning little pickaninny, and to it "Miss Shiday" was a wonderful woman. Roxey never scolded Beck, except for loitering on the way to and from the postoffice. Beck's instructions had been to remind the absentminded postmaster on Saturday that The Lighthouse should be forthcoming, and her daily query, "Any dem Lighthouse papers fer Miss Shiday?" came to be a byword with the patrons.

One day we went to Roxie's and were somewhat surprised to see an old negro, ragged and tattered, seated on her front steps, his hat beside him, his face in his hands, his whole appearance one of humble misery. His broken sobs fell mournfully upon the quiet air, and even the mocking birds that always sang in the crooked old apple trees around the door had been frightened into silence. We went to the little washhouse, expecting to find Roxie over the tubs, up to her elbows in soapsups, when there she sat on a stool, looking every bit as miserable as did the old fellow on the step.

"What is the matter?" we asked.

She took but a feeble notice of our presence, and went on wringing her hands, rocking herself to and fro, and making a little doleful noise that sounded very like the cry of the mourning doves, which kept up their ceaseless "Ooh-ooh-ooh" back of the college, and made us homesick.

"Aunt Roxie, tell us what troubles you," we said. "Can't we help you?"

She reached out her hand in a helpless, entreating way, and we rushed to her and knelt about her, begging her not to cry, for Roxie crying was as pitiable a sight as I ever looked upon.

"Honey," she whispered, "dis ole woman is mighty sor'ful. You see dat ole man on de step?"

"Yes," we answered. "Who is he?"

She did not reply, but continued to moan and stare into vacancy with wide open, tear dimmed eyes. Presently she got up, went to the little window and looked at the old fellow, then came back murmuring, "It's him, it's him, after all dese yurs, it's him."

"Roxie," came the plaintive cry, "oh, Roxie!"

She staggered to her feet, then sank down again.

"Dat's somebody what I uster know," she whispered cautiously, "back in Tenn'see long 'go. Dat's all, honey."

"Perhaps it is not him," we said, thinking she would rather be brought to believe herself mistaken.

"Dis ole woman's sutten en sho'," she returned. "Ain't I done toted dem luks in my head all dese yurs? Ever' day I says ter myse'f, 'Dere's a gray ha'r, en dere's a wrinkle, en dere's a crooked laig, en dere's a stoop-ed bac', en it's all so. Dat's de same ole nigger I'ze been totin roun in my head en studyin over all dese yurs."

She went to the window again, then came back and sat down.

"Tell us about it," we said, "and perhaps we can help you."

"Yuse done done all," she announced. "You brung him here, I know."

That was startling. We wanted an explanation.

"Hit wuz dem pieces ter de papers. Dat wuz de reasin I wrote 'em, so's he'd see 'em en know I wuz livin en doin well. En dat's where Roxie Scales kems in, whut you argified so much over. I wuz a Scales, en I is a Scales—Friday is a ole med up name. But I didn't reckin he'd kem trackin down hyur when I hed de paper sont ter him."

"Why don't you go and speak to him, Roxie? He has come a long distance to see you. Go, Roxie."

"I wudn't speak ter him fer dis yeth!" she cried. "Dat's a ole married nigger."

Roxie was a rigid moralist but here was something we could not understand.

"Kem, sit down," she said at last. "I see I hafter tell ter set my own kerrickter stret. Long 'go I wuz young, en I b'longed ter a gemman in Tenn'see. So did Jabe. Dat's him out dere. We co'ted en married en wuz so happy, en bom-by a baby kem. 'Bout dat time we tuk Tumpy, whut didn't hev no mammy, ter raise. She wuz 10 den—10 yurs ole. I kin hear dat Tump singin yit, a-rockin de crib, wid de baby a-squallin en her a-pattin ter drown de yells, en me a-wukin in de fiel close by, long de row, 'side o' Jabe's. Den Tump wud bring us water in de long ha'dle gourd, en I'd drink fust en Jabe nex'. Den Tump would skeet bac' wid a basket on her head ter keep de br'ilin hot sun off, en a dancin Juba un'er de shade. We sorter kep' ter ourse'ves, kase Jabe wuz counted lakly, en we wuked de patches of goobers en watermilluns by de branch, en de gyardens, en de ticklish wuk dat old mistis wudn't let nobody else tetch. But one day ole mawster went en died, en Jabe fell ter de son, Mawse Aleck, en I fell ter Miss Sallie. En Miss Sallie she married, en her man nuver b'lieved in ownin niggers, but he b'lieved in sellin 'em en puttin de money fer 'em snug in his pockets. He sol me, en I wuz kerried 'way off ter Mis'sippi. I begged him, en Miss Sallie beg him, but she wuz leetle, en he was big en domineerin en med her pass her cawnsent.

"'Fo' goin I went ter de crib en tuk a long luk at dat po' leetle sleepin baby, whut wudn't soon hev no mammy, en Jabe was cryin fit ter die, en Tump wuz yellin on de do'-step. It wuz wuss'n dyin stiff dead, but whut kem 'way after dat wuz wuss yit. I luked bac' 'long ez I cud see a sign of de cabin or de smoke, en 'bout de time I wuz gittin outer sight I heard de baby cry, en day cry rung in my head fer yurs en yurs, en I hear it yit. It wuz lak it say, 'Kem bac', mammy,' en I cried en cried, too, en when de s'render kem dat cry med me plod bac' ter ole Tenn'see. I wanted ter see Jabe en Tump en all, so I wuked hard en saved money, den started ter 'em. I wuz happy 'nough on de way bac' ter do me a lifetime.

"When I got ter de old neighborhood wunst mo', I flew lak I hed wings, I wuz so j'yful. I walked fum de railroad out, fer I'd spent mos' of my change fer presen's fer 'em all. De qua'ters wuz mighty nigh empty, but I see smoke kemin outer de chimbly whut hed been ourn, en I knowed Jabe wuz dere yit. En mebby leetle Judy hed got big 'nough ter cook, fer I'd been gawn 10 yurs, en wudn't she be glad ter see her old mammy? I jis' fai'ly flew down dat big road, a-raisin de dust lak a hoss drove. I slung dat ca'pet bag right en lef' en strutted prouder'n I did on de bloc' in Richmon. I'd been 'maginin dat baby sayin, 'Mammy, kem bac',' all dis long while, en who knowed but whut it read'ed up de house an cooked now, sayin, 'Mebby mammy 'ill be home terday.'

"I got ter de do', en a young yaller woman sot in de sunshine a-mendin britches, but I didn't see no leetle gal flyin round gittin dinner, en dat knocked up my cackerlations.

"'Do Jabe Scales live hyur?' I axed de woman, en she say he do. En I say, 'I'ze de wife dat wuz sol in slavery.'

"En, chillen, who you reckin dat wuz? It wuz Tump, dat same Tump, growed a sight bigger'n I ever thought she would, but whut you reckin she say? 'Mebby you wuz his wife in slavery,' says she, 'but I'ze his wife in freedom, en Jabe's gawn ter town wid Mawse Aleck's team.'

"I jis fell flat. De bref wus knocked outer me.

"'Dullaw, ef dis ain't A'nt Roxie!' say she den. En I say, 'I nuver b'lieved Jabe wud do dat: You cudn't a-beat it inter my head all day long, ef I wuzn't hyur ter see fer myse'f. Whut med you, Tump?'

"She begin ter cry en said dey didn't reckin I'd ever be bac', en lak ez not I'd married agin too. I luked at her stret. 'Dem ain't my idees of marriage,' says I. 'Whey's my baby, den?' She sorter gasped en showed de whites of her eyes.

"'It's dade,' she say, en de news sprawled me flat.

"'Whey is it?' I axed.

"'Dade,' she say again.

"'Whey's its little bones, I'ze axin?'

"Den she p'inted out de place, en I lef' en went ter dat leetle grave, whut wuzn't no bigger'n de crib I'd seen it in las', en fell down 'side it en hid my burnin shameface in its cool green grass, en 'fo' I got up I heard a snap en knowed my heart hed popped in two at las'. It was ter'ble still out in dem woods. De wind jis' move de broom saidge, en de pine trees roared 'nough ter mek you feel skeery when yuse way off in a graveyard by yo'se'f. Now'n then a pa'tridge wud whir up en mek me jump. All ter wunst I heard sumpin lak sumpin sayin, 'Hurry off!' en I nuver stopped ter think it out, but hurried at wunst.

"So I kem down ter dishyer state en nuver let on who I wuz tell now. Dat ole nigger out dere is Jabe Scales. Dat's Tump's ole man, not mine, en I ain't gwan hev speech wid him. I'se too puppindicklar ter resk multiplyin words wid him."

She broke into sobs again, and we went to the window.

"He looks poor and old and forsaken," we said. "Hear him cough! Look at the old hands shake, and his toes are out of his boots. His trousers must have been cut when the water was high, and look at that coat! Poor, dilapidated old man!"

Roxie came and peeped over our shoulders.

"Dasso," she said. "Dat Tump orter patch his duds. He luks lak a skeercrow, tubbe sho! When Beck kems, she'll be skeered outer her senses by him. I'ze gwan put my scruples in my pocket, en feed him, en clean him up, en sen him bac' ter dat Tump ter show her how ter treat a man. She did put on monstus airs when she say she wuz his wife in freedom, lak freedom wuz de pra'r book. I ain't nuver called it sich a fine thing ter be a wife in freedom."

She bathed her face, then went out into the yard, singing as mournfully as ever:

"Dey's a lan dat is fa'rer den day,
En by faith we kin see it far off."

She pretended to see nothing but the clothes on the lines, which she took off, piece by piece, and put into baskets. The old man left the steps and tottered toward her.

"Roxie!" he called in a tremulous old voice.

"Whut ole man is you?" she asked, turning and looking at him unconcernedly.

"Doan' you know me, Roxie?" he said, casting a sheepish, deprecating glance at his rags.

"I guess you ter be some ole man slipped off fum de po'house," was the cool reply.

"Roxie!"

"Or some ole runaway nigger been hidin ever sence befo' de wah."

"Now, Roxie!"

"Or some ole ha'nt of a nigger whut de Ku-Klux hung."

"Why, Roxie!"

"Or some ole skeercrow whut got blowed erway en lodged down hyur."

"No, I ain't, Roxie, none o' dem. I'ze a po', no 'count ole nigger named Jabe Scales, what uster live up in Tenn'see, dat you wuz married ter 'way wunst."

"De laws a massy!" exclaimed Roxie. "Ain't you outer yo' min? Huhkom you got strayed off so fur fum home then?"

"I kem ter fin you," he said. "I med s'arch tell I foun you, Roxie."

Roxie's hand clutched at the clothesline for support, and she looked away toward the mountains.

"I got dem papers dem Lighthouses, you sent, Roxie, en Mawse Aleck's leetle boy ester read 'em ter me, en I'd go off by myse'f en think over 'em en cry, en at las' I cudn't keep fum kemin no longer. Tumpy she done dade en gawn. She nuver tol me tell de las' dat you wuz back dat time, en I didn't blame her, kase it wudn't a-he'ped matters none. En she say, 'Go hunt A'nt Roxie en mek it right.' But I ain't axin you ter marry me over, Roxie. I know yuse lukin up higher trees fer better berries, but I jis' wanter stay roun in hearin of you. Kin I, Roxie?"

Roxie brought her eyes back from the hill. She looked once at the eager old face, then looked down. Old Jabe leaned heavily on his cane.

"En Tumpy's dade?" she said at last.

"Two yurs, kem nex' month."

"She done all right by you?"

"She done her bes'," was the reply.

"You didn't miss me, den?"

"Yes, I did, Roxie, but Tumpy sorter kensoled me en we talked erbout po' Roxie ever' blessed day."

"Po' Tump! En whey'd you lay her?"

"Side o' leetle Judy."

Roxie got exceedingly busy all at once and pulled the clothes off the line with a vengeance. She tore a lace curtain into fragments in her excitement, then flung it away as if it did not belong to Miss Fancher, and as if Miss Fancher were as amiable as a spring lamb. Old Jabe watched her with fascinated eyes.

"Lemme he'p tote 'em in," he said. Taking up the basket, he carried it to the steps.

"Roxie, it luks homey 'bout hyur, he said presently. "Doan' it, now?"

Roxie's eyes traveled no farther than to where the crooked, stooped old man stood, gazing contentedly about him, drinking in the peace and beauty of the hills and valleys and little brooks, not overlooking Roxie's clean yards, big wood pile and show on all sides of a modest plenty.

"It do now," she answered softly. "Go buil on a fire in de kitchen, Jabe, en le's git supper. En when dat poke easy chile of a Beck, whut mus' tek her observations ez she goes 'long, puts in her 'pear'nece we'll sen her fer de preacher."

And Roxie began "Sweet Bom-By," singing so merrily we knew it had come at last, just as Beck, still "kiten her observations," came over the hill with a Lighthouse under her arm.—Mrs. A. W. Bissell in Hartford Times.

Three Times Seven.

In the "Life and Correspondence of Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, D. D.," the author tells us that the distinguished preacher had an entire lack of humor, and he cites an amusing incident in proof thereof.

I was telling Dean Stanley that Musician Halle's cook had lately won a good round sum in a lottery with the number 23.

Halle was interested and asked her how she came to fix on so lucky a number.

"Oh, sir," said she, "I had a dream. I dreamt of number seven. I dreamt of it three times, and as three times seven makes 23, I chose that number, sir."

When I had concluded my story, I observed a wistful expression on Arthur's countenance, as if he were ready—nay, anxious—to be amused, but could not for the life of him quite manage it. Then suddenly his face brightened, and he said, but not without a tinge of dejection:

"Ah, yes, I see. Yes, I suppose three times seven is not 23."

Graves of Two Famous Kentuckians.

With heads facing each other the great Longfellow and scarcely less renowned Ten Broeck are taking their final rest in the soil of the famous Nantura Stock farm in Woodford county, the home of the Harpers. The grave of Ten Broeck is surrounded with a neat fence of palings, painted white and tipped with green at the top. The grave of Longfellow has not yet been inclosed. Between these two equine wonders of the turf rises a handsome marble staff, which presents four polished sides for inscriptions. Jils Johnson and imported Rossington will doubtless, when their time comes, complete the quadruple grave. As yet the marble shaft contains but one inscription, and that recounts the birth, performances and death of Ten Broeck, who beat Longfellow to the tomb.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Serious Charge Against the Oyster.

One by one this end of the century age of materialism is destroying all our popular ideals, and if it continues 1901 will find itself compelled to set up an entirely new lot in the absence of any holdovers. The latest instance of destruction comes from a professional hygienist, who makes serious allegations against the oyster, undertaking to prove that the popular notion that this succulent bivalve just about digests itself is all wrong. He says that the oyster is three hours and a half in digesting and as an after theater supper is about as suitable as a lobster salad topped off with hot mince pie. And no one believes him.—New York Herald.

Would Not Sound Well.

Clara—The paper says that in Italy they have begun to number the clocks from 1 to 24, beginning at 1 o'clock in the morning.

Dora—That's horrid. Just imagine how pa would look if we had to tell him that Arthur and Gus staid until 23 o'clock.—New York Weekly.

MERCURIAL
Mr. J. C. Jones, of Fulton, Ark., says of S.S.S. "About ten years ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. Leading physicians prescribed medicine after medicine, which I took without any relief. I also tried mercurial and potash remedies, with unsuccessful results, but which brought on an attack of mercurial rheumatism that made my life one of agony. After suffering four years I gave up all remedies and commenced using S. S. S. After taking several bottles, I was entirely cured and able to resume work. S.S.S. is the greatest medicine for blood poisoning to-day on the market."

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have been using it for about two years—four bottles in all—as occasion required, and always keep a bottle of it in my home. I believe I know a good thing when I get hold of it, and Pain Balm is the best liniment I have ever met with. W. B. Denny, dairyman, New Lexington, Ohio. 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

A Medical Firm Gives Away Cash.

J. F. Smith & Co. of No. 265 Greenwich St., New York, the manufacturers of that favorite cathartic known as Smith's Bile Beans, have adopted a novel plan. They ask the individual buyers of Bile Beans to send their full name and address, with an outside wrapper from a bottle of Bile Beans (either size) to their office, and they give $5 for the first wrapper received in each morning's mail, and $1 for the 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th. Every day $10 in cash is thus sent to their correspondents. Ask for SMALL size.

Read Mr. Chase's Experience with a Substitute

And the Glad Result of Taking HOOD'S.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Last March I had to give up work, 'completely worn out.' I felt tired all the time; had frequent headaches, and spells of dizziness; I had no appetite, and what little I did eat, distressed me terribly. My wife was feeling about the same. I went to the drug store, and called for Hood's Sarsaparilla. The druggist said he was out of Hood's, but that he could give me a medicine made from about the same formula.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

just as good. I bought a bottle and carried it home, and wife and I took it faithfully. That bottle was finished and we could see no improvement. A second and then a third bottle followed, when my wife declared she would take it no longer; as she believed she felt worse than she did before taking it. We put the third bottle away half full; and I went to the drug-store and got a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and a box of Hood's Pills. In less than a week

We Began to Improve.

We began to relish our food, and it didn't distress us as before. That tired worn-out feeling left us gradually, and after taking five bottles, we called ourselves well; and give Hood's Sarsaparilla the credit it deserves. Whenever I take a severe cold I always take three of Hood's Pills at night, and in the morning find my cold broken. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills are a complete medicine chest in themselves, and I heartily recommend them to everyone." ERWIN C. CHASE, Bothell, Washington.

Read what the Rev. Dr. J. K. McLean, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Oakland, says of it:

Hazel Creek, April 14, '94.

* * * I am more than pleased with it—delighted. The place seems to me to embody all available points for a camp—dry, firm soil, good water (the very best), fine chances for drainage, and scenery unsurpassable. The view of Mt. Shasta is one of the very best to be had from any point; it is visible from every part of the ground. The view of the Crags also is fine. The general environment is of the best. It is an oval shaped amphitheater, three miles long by one-fourth to ¾ of a mile wide, with receding walls two to three thousand feet in height, with lines and shades of beauty at every reach. I doubt if a better place can be found in all Northern California.

I. G. Wickersham, the Petaluma banker, will take possession of Col. Rogers' ranch on June 1st. The property will be managed by E. H. Wickersham of Keokuk, Iowa, a nephew of the new owner. Col. Rogers and family have leased a small farm near town, where they will take up their residence.

Hay cutting on the Senator Jones four-thousand acre ranch, south of town, is in full blast. Twelve or fifteen mowers and a large force of men are engaged in cutting and stacking the hay. The yield will be large. Nearly 900 acres in barley, which will be headed and threshed, will yield 60 bushels to the acre. The Jones ranch this season will put some money into the Senator's pocket, who has spent over half a million dollars in reclaiming and improving the tract, which altogether embraces 19,000 acres, only 3,500 of which has been put under cultivation.

John Ludeman, who for the past twenty-seven years has been engaged in the cooperage business in Sonoma, left for Santa Rosa last Wednesday, where he has bought the cooper shop of Forstler & Legh. For the present Mr. Ludeman's family will remain in their cozy home in this place, but will eventually move to Santa Rosa. John has many friends in this place who will regret his departure. He is a member of the Board of City Trustees and Assistant Chief of the Sonoma Volunteer Fire Department, and he intends to resign both offices as soon as his family is installed in a new home in Santa Rosa.

The programme for the Band Concert will contain the following number and if you are feeling blue about anything go and listen to it and you won't stop laughing for six months: Humoresque, "Salvation Army," Chas. FATAL ACCIDENT IN BENNETT VALLEY.

Premature Discharge of a Shot-gun Blows a Man's Head Into Atoms.

By the premature discharge of his shot-gun Alex. Bartlett, a farmer residing in Bennett Valley, several miles from Glen Ellen, lost his life last Saturday evening. The unfortunate man picked up the gun and remarked that he was going in search of a coyote that had been prowling around the place for several days. While yet in the house and talking the gun slipped through his hands. The stock struck the floor. There was a report, and Bartlett fell dead, his head being blown into atoms.

The deceased was a widower and aged fifty years. His only known blood relative is a child, a little daughter.

THE FROST.

Sonoma Valley Vineyards Badly Damaged.

Corn, Potatoes and Beans Laid Low.

One of the most disastrous frosts that has visited this valley for a long time made its appearance known a few hours after sunrise last Wednesday morning.

Vineyards that never looked so green and promising at this season of the year were blackened and withered and presented a desolate appearance within two hours after being exposed to the sun's rays.

Almost every vineyard in Sonoma Valley suffered, if we except a few that fortunately escaped by the vagaries of the frost. Here and there are vineyards which were not touched, while others immediately adjoining were so badly damaged that they will yield few if any grapes. For the most part, however, few vineyards escaped wholly the visitation.

Potatoes, corn and beans were also laid low, but by far the most damage was done to the vineyards.

Fruit of all kinds, if we except grapes, escaped damage.

St. Francis' Church.

As previously announced in these columns Archbishop Riordan will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation in St. Francis' Church on Sunday, May 27th, at 10:30 A. M. At the conclusion of the ceremony His Grace will preach. The choir which rendered such an excellent programme on Easter Sunday has charge of the musical exercises for Confirmation day. The offertory and sanctus of the Mass will be sung by a special chorus. The Archbishop will terminate the services with the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, at which the special chorus will render the "O Salutaris" and the "Tantum Ergo." The special chorus is a new feature and has not been heard before in Sonoma.

Republicans to Select Delegates to the State Convention.

The Republican County Central Committee met in Santa Rosa last Monday afternoon for the purpose of naming a date for the holding of primaries to elect delegates to a County Convention which will convene in Santa Rosa on Monday, June 4th. It was decided to hold a primary election on Tuesday, May 29th. This County Convention will select delegates to the State and District Conventions, and will have nothing whatever to do with choosing a county ticket. Another convention will be held for that purpose.

Has He Forfeited His Rights of Citizenship?

J. H. Neyce, who a few years ago, was tried, found guilty and sentenced to serve two years in the State Prison for embezzling a small sum of money, has mandamused County Clerk Wines to register him, and Mr. Wines is cited to appear and show cause on the 28th inst. The County Clerk refused to register Mr. Neyce on the statutory ground that he is an ex-convict. Mr. Neyce in his application for the writ of mandate sets forth that he was pardoned by the Governor, and thereby restored to citizenship. District Attorney Seawell will represent Mr. Wines and J. C. Sims the plaintiff. In refusing to register Mr. Neyce County Clerk Wines had no motive except to carry out the provisions of a State law, which deprives ex-convicts of the right to citizenship. Neyce, who by the way, had always been an exemplary citizen previous to the embezzlement of the money which sent him to prison and which was taken when in his cups, was pardoned by the Governor after serving about eighteen months of his sentence. He is now engaged in a legitimate business in Santa Rosa, has grown children, is respected and as he has already been punished for his crime we can see no reason of torturing him by depriving him of his rights as an American citizen.

HE HAD AUTHORITY.

The Index-Tribune's Correspondent Replies to Mr. Lemmon.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE:

Mr. Lemmon of the Santa Rosa Daily Republican, in his paper of the 14th inst., expresses a doubt as to whether I had authority or permission to propose the name of R. A. Poppe as a candidate for the Assembly to represent the 17th Assembly District. It seems that the Santa Rosa political managers claim the sole right to name candidates, and think it a trespass if any other Republican in Sonoma County dares to exercise his political prerogative. Even a voter at the polls may vote for a person whose name is not on the ballot. Then why should I first ask permission from R. A. Poppe or from the Santa Rosa machine to propose his name as a candidate? R. A. Poppe did not seek the office, but the people sought him for the office, and to satisfy Mr. Lemmon on this point I will here briefly state the facts. Upon consultation with some leading Republicans of Sonoma, I went to R. A. Poppe and told him they wanted him to run for the Legislature. At first he was surprised at my abrupt proposition, but upon consideration he answered: "If the people want me and elect me I will serve them," or words to that effect, and then he added: "I should like to help in passing a bill for the embodying of the Torrens system of transfers of real estate into our laws."

I hope this explanation will be acceptable to Mr. Lemmon.

THE SAME REPUBLICAN.

Sonoma, May 16th, 1894.

JOURNALISTIC ENTERPRISE.

Special Editions of the Healdsburg "Enterprise" and the Santa Rosa Papers.

John J. Livernash, one of the brightest newspaper men of Northern California, has just issued in pamphlet form an illustrated supplement to his excellent journal for distribution at the Midwinter Fair. It sets forth in well-chosen language Sonoma county's advantages for the farmer, dairyman, investor, pleasure or health-seeker. The publication totes fair to every part of the county regardless of section. It is one of the best written and fairest publications treating of the capabilities of Sonoma county that has yet emanated from its local press.

The Santa Rosa Republican's Rose Carnival edition, issued last Saturday, is also a creditable publication and Santa Rosans ought to feel proud of its efforts to boom that town.

The Santa Rosa Democrat's special edition of 30,000 copies, issued on the 12th inst., is well gotten up and a big undertaking, and brother Thompson deserves praise for his enterprise. But right here we have a bone to pick with you, Bob, for not deigning to mention Sonoma Township, which you know stands at the head of every section of Sonoma county and every county in the State when it comes to the richness of its soil and the diversity of its products. Surely you have not forgotten Old Sonoma Township which has so often helped out the county in making creditable displays at our annual State and District Fairs while all the credit went to Santa Rosa. Neither should you overlook, in writing up the county, that Sonoma Township won that $1,000 premium at the Mechanics' Fair in 1887 in competition with every county in the State including Santa Rosa "county." It was undoubtedly an oversight on your part, brother Thompson, but it was a most grevious one to leave Sonoma Valley out in the cold.

FRUIT.

It is Money This Year—$25 per Ton Offered and Refused for Peaches and Apricots.

The fruit crop of Sonoma Valley, if we except grapes, never looked better in May. The yield will be large and the quality never better.

Already a number of new buyers have entered the field for this season's crop. Twenty-five dollars per ton for peaches and apricots has been offered several of our farmers. The offer was refused, as fruit is money this year, and the outlook is very promising for the orchardist.

In regard to the vineyards which were badly nipped by Wednesday morning's frost, many of the wine-growers take a hopeful view of the disaster wrought by the visitation. They say that wine is way down and a partial failure of the grape crop will revive the market and cause grapes to go up, in which case a half crop at fair prices is better than a full crop at $8 per ton.

At the least calculation the grape crop in Sonoma Valley will be cut down one-half if not more by Wednesday morning's frost.

Miss Mattie Smith of Monterey county was in town several days last week visiting friends. Miss Mattie has not been in Sonoma for six years. The young lady was surprised at the many fine improvements made here during that time.

The Maryland cook makes coffee without a filtered coffee pot better than some make with it. She puts the coffee into the pot, sets it over the fire and shakes it until well heated, and then pours boiling water over it. The aroma of the coffee is delicious.

The pretty home of T. M. Brunn, located in the southern suburbs of Sonoma, was the scene of a pleasant gathering of young people on last Tuesday evening, the occasion being a social for the benefit of the Congregational Church. The time was very enjoyably spent in conversation and the playing of games and music throughout the evening. Ice cream and cake was served and all who were present had a most delightful time.

The art of living easily as to money is very simple—pitch your scale of living one degree below your means. All the world's wisdom on the subject is most tersely epitomized in the words of Dickens's "Micawber": "Annual income, twenty pounds; annual expenditure, nineteen six; result, happiness. Annual income, twenty pounds; annual expenditure, twenty pounds, naught and six; result, misery."

Bits of toilet soap which are very small may be utilized. Make a bag of Turkish towelling about nine inches square and put in it all the small pieces of soap. When three-quarters filled sew up the end and use the same as if it were a cake of soap.

Skirts whose waists have lost their freshness may be utilized for wear with fancy bodices. Skirts of black silk or wool are most useful, as waists of every color go with them, and with a little skill and careful management the toilet may be well varied.

In June, the month of roses, and the birth month of the Roman goddess Juno, more weddings occur than in any other month in the year. Its popularity is due to the pretty fiction that Juno (meaning yoke-maker) takes a special interest in marriages, and that her protecting care follows and blesses all those who are wedded in June.

Rev. Tudor Moreton has arranged to hold Episcopal services every Sunday in Sonoma at Weyl's Hall, at 11 A. M. Hereafter there will be no services held in the Agua Caliente school house. The holding of the services at Weyl's Hall will be a great accommodation to the Episcopalians living east and south of town. Many residents of this valley hope that at no distant day they will see an Episcopal Church erected which will not only be an ornament to the town, but a lasting benefit to all. Here let us venture to suggest that a series of entertainments be given from time to time towards that end. This would be the means of raising the necessary funds for the erection of a neat little church in our midst. Let every one work harmoniously together in this matter and it will be a success.

KISSING TIME.

'Tis when the lark goes soaring,
And the bee is at the bud,
When lightly dancing zephyrs
Sing over field and flood,
When all sweet things in nature
Seem joyfully a-chime,
'Tis then I wake my darling,
For it is kissing time.

Go, pretty lark, a-soaring,
And stick your sweets, O bee,
Sing, O ye winds of summer,
Your songs to mine and me,
For with your song and rapture
Cometh the moment when
It's half past kissing time
And time to kiss again!

So—so the days go fleeting
Like golden fancies free,
And every day that cometh
Is full of sweets for me.
And sweetest are those moments
My darling comes to climb
Into my lap to mind me
That it is kissing time.

Sometimes maybe he wanders
A heedless, aimless way,
Sometimes maybe he loiters
In pretty, prattling play,
But presently he thinks him
And hastens to me then,
For it's half past kissing time
And time to kiss again!
—Eugene Field in Chicago Record.

Petroleum Bricks.

Fuel bricks of crude petroleum are extensively used in the Italian navy and are made as follows: The mixture, which is made in the proportion of 1½ pints of petroleum, 10 per cent of rosin, 5½ ounces of powdered soap and 11½ ounces of caustic soda, is heated and stirred at the same time. Solidification begins in about 10 minutes, and the operation must then be carefully watched. If there is a tendency to remain liquid, a little more soda is added. After the mixture has been stirred until the mass becomes nearly solid the thick paste is poured into the molds, which are placed for 10 or 15 minutes in a drying stove. The briquettes, which are of the same size and form as those largely used in France and Germany, are then cooled and are ready for use in a few hours.

Signor Maestracci recommends the addition of 20 per cent of wood sawdust and 20 per cent of clay or sand, which make the briquette both cheaper and more solid. In trials made at Marseilles on several tugboats the petroleum briquettes furnished about three times as much heat as coal briquettes of the same size. They were burned in the ordinary boiler furnace without any special preparation, gave out very little smoke and left little or no ash.—Philadelphia Press.

About Bill Collecting.

"Next to the disadvantages of having too little money is the misfortune of having too much," said a retailer to me. "By this I mean that the man who is too closely run in his business for ready cash is apt to press claims which it would really be to his advantage to allow to stand a little while longer, whereas, on the other hand, where a firm or an individual has too large a bank account there is grave danger that accounts which should be collected will be allowed to stand until for some reason or other they become uncollectable altogether. As to just what is the proper method to pursue in regard to this matter of collecting bills it is hard to say,"—Shoe and Leather Facts.

Origin of Gold Nuggets.

That gold nuggets grow in alluvial deposits by the deposition of the metal upon their surface was long ago suggested and has been the accepted theory of many geologists and chemists. A different conclusion was recently offered to the Royal Society of New South Wales by Professor A. Liversidge. Many experiments have convinced him that, although large nuggets may be produced artificially, those found in alluvial deposits have been derived from gold bearing rocks and reefs and have received their rounded and mammilated surface by attrition.

Rhode Island has 2,200 factories, employing 38,000 men, 22,000 women and 4,400 children. The combined capital of the mills is $76,000,000 and the annual output $104,000,000.

There are two reasons why some people don't mind their own business. One is that they haven't any mind; the other, that they haven't any business.

A GRAND OFFER!

FREE MME. A. RUPPERT'S FACE BLEACH

MME. A. RUPPERT says: "I appreciate the fact that there are many thousands of ladies in the United States that would like to try my World-Renowned FACE BLEACH, but have been kept from doing so on account of price, which is $2.00 per bottle or 3 bottles taken together, $5.00. In order that all of these may have an opportunity, I will give to every caller, absolutely free, a sample bottle, and in order to supply those out of city, or in any part of the world, I will send it safely packed in plain wrapper all charges prepaid, for 25 cents, silver or stamp."
In every case of freckles, pimples, moth, sallowness, blackheads, acne, eczema, oiliness, roughness, or any discoloration or disease of the skin, and wrinkles (not caused by facial expression) FACE BLEACH removes absolutely. It does not cover up, as cosmetics do, but is a cure. Address

OUR NEW 1893 FLOWER SEED OFFER.

A Magnificent Collection of FLOWER SEEDS 200 Varieties, FREE!

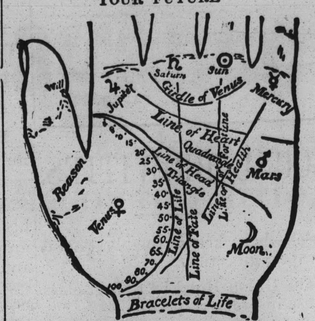

An Unparalleled Offer by an Old-Established and Reliable Publishing House! The Ladies' World is a large 20-page, 80-column illustrated Magazine for ladies and the family circle. It is devoted to stories, poems, ladies' fancy work, artistic needlework, home decoration, housekeeping, fashions, hygiene, juvenile reading, etiquette, etc. To introduce this charming ladies' paper into 100,000 homes where it is not already taken, we now make the following colossal offer: Upon receipt of only 12 Cents in silver or stamps, we will send The Ladies' World for Three Months, and to each subscriber we will also send Free and postpaid, a large and magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, two hundred varieties, including Pansies, Verbenas, Chrysanthemums, Asters, Phlox Drummondi, Balsam, Cypress Vine, Stocks, Digitalis, Double Zinnias, Pinks, etc., etc. Remember, twelve cents pays for the magazine three months and this entire magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds, put up by a first-class Seed House and warranted fresh and reliable. No lady can afford to miss this wonderful opportunity. We guarantee every subscriber many times the value of money sent, and will refund your money and make you a present of both seeds and Magazine if you are not satisfied. Ours is an old and reliable publishing house, endorsed by all the leading newspapers. We have received hundreds of testimonials from pleased patrons during the past five years: "I had beautiful flowers from the seeds you sent me two years ago, and from experience know the seeds are exactly as advertised."—Mrs. N. C. Bayun, Dana, Wis. "Myself and friends have sent for various things advertised by you, and have found them to be entirely satisfactory."—M. J. Davis, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher (a regular subscriber), and Grace Greenwood, each ordered our seeds last season. Do not confound this offer with the catchpenny schemes of unscrupulous persons. Write to-day—don't put it off! Six subscriptions and six Seed Collections sent for 60 cents.

SPECIAL OFFER! To any lady sending us 12 cents for above offer, and naming the paper in which she saw this advertisement, we will send free, in addition to all the above, one packet of the celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas, embracing the newest varieties, including Boreatton, Ivy Eckford, Splendor, The Queen, Orange Prince, Apple Blossom, etc. Sweet Peas are the most popular and fashionable bouquet flowers now cultivated, and the Eckford Varieties which we offer, are the largest, finest and most celebrated known. They grow to a height of 6 feet, and produce for three months a continuous profusion of fragrant blooms of the most brilliant coloring.

ANOTHER GREAT OFFER! Upon receipt of Thirty-five Cents (our regular subscription price) we will send The Ladies' World for One Year, together with our magnificent Collection of Choice Flower Seeds above described, likewise one packet of the extensively advertised and justly celebrated Eckford Sweet Peas. Address
S. L. MOORE & CO., 27 Park Place, New York.

YOUR FUTURE

IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.
